

This is a detailed topographic map of a residential area. A prominent red line traces a boundary across the map, starting from the bottom left, moving diagonally upwards, and then curving to follow the right side of the property. The map is covered with numerous elevation points, each labeled with a number and a symbol (such as a circle with a dot or a triangle). These points indicate the ground's elevation at various locations. Contour lines are drawn to show the slope of the terrain. In the bottom left corner, there is a small inset map showing a larger area with a red rectangle highlighting the specific location of the main map. The map also shows some buildings and infrastructure, including what appears to be a road or path on the right side.
